Steven Root	Full	I strongly believe that as a professional I should contribute back to my chosen profession. I am passionate that professional PM standards are recognised and widely taught and volunteer my time to that effect. After 6 years on the Branch Committee I am still as keen as ever to contribute and both encourage younger APM members as well as help build a stronger more professional PM community in Hong Kong.	I have 30 years PM experience in many sectors such as mining, construction, I.T. and the financial industries. I have served on the Hong Kong Branch Committee for the past 6 years and have served the Branch as Chairman for the last 31/2 years. In the past year I have managed to bring the HK Government on board with recognising that APM is the global standard that government PM standards should align with. I am also keenly involved in current discussions concerned with introducing APM qualifications and standards to major Mainland contractor and consultant trade associations.	5hrs

Tak Yun WONG Joe	Fellow	I have been the committee member for about 18 years since I joined the APM. I have been invigilating the APMP exams thereafter till now for the major consulting firms in Hong Kong. Over the past three years, I have also been the treasurer of the local branch. At the very beginning, I assisted the Membership Secretary in handling the membership matters. On occasions, I was particularly proud at organizing some monthly events with the Event Organizers in the old days. After attending the events and writing up the event scripts for the inclusion into the website, I have actually learned from the speakers the challenges and lessons that contributed to the project success. With a very close relationship with the committee members and the Association, I very much wish to continue my committee membership. This is mainly attributed to my self-motivation and interests in the project management field.	I have equipped myself with the life-long learning. The post graduate academic qualifications in Project Management from the University of Reading and the professional qualifications from the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors and the Hong Kong Institute of Surveyors enabled me to think positively about my self-development and career progress in the past. I have been an internal Management Consultant with the Hong Kong Government for over two decades. I am particularly keen in identifying key issues and risks on projects. Conflict resolution, especially the soft issues, among stakeholders is also my strength. Now, I think it is high time for me to continue to bring the knowledge and experience I gained from the public and private sectors to the local branch committee.	About two to three hours per week.

Or Siu Hong	Student	With my career interest and decent attitude of learning, I believe that I am the suitable person for this post of the APM Hong Kong branch committee 2018/19. I desire to join the committee since I want to promote APM to more university students in HK, as well as arouse the awareness of certain construction management issues at university campus. Being a member of APM, I hope to publicise APM via launching different activities like APM student membership gathering. My internship experience at China Resource Land Qianhai Co., Ltd. as an engineer intern provided me with some important skills to work with the professionals in the construction industry. I participated in some stages of construction management, including the testings of building materials and supervision of the building procedures. Having this experience, I want to contribute APM by leading students to participate the relevant construction management activities in the future.	Majoring in year 2 Surveying from the Department of Architecture and Civil Engineering, City University of Hong Kong, I am well equipped with essential knowledge and skills to come with this applied position to develop the construction management commissions. It is my desire to develop more advanced automation, BIM and safety construction under construction management. Besides, I am a thoughtful and proactive student. Being a student mentor, I also organise some activities for the year one student. Huge connection with them is developed so as to realise their needs and help them to become independent. I believe that I would be an asset to your program. This post offers me a golden opportunity to assist your construction management and to expand my management skills. I am available to work from 28 June 2018.	2-3 hours

Murray Ross RPP	Full	Joining the APM's committee has been on my wish list since committing to my RPP qualification. As a top tier member, I want to share the knowledge I have gained (through experience and various qualifications) with others to help grow and develop the APM's more junior members and take the Association into a well known and respected professional body globally. As an extremely driven and dedicated professional, I think the APM HK branch/ committee will only benefit from having me onboard.	I have spent the last 10 years developing my career with Mott MacDonald and currently hold down the role of Project Controls Manager and Practice Lead for Project, Programme &amp; Commercial Management (PPCM) for North East Asia (Hong Kong, China, Taiwan). Reporting to the Unit Managing Director, I am responsible for implementing robust project controls processes across the entire multi-disciplinary portfolio of projects as well as providing leadership across the PPCM practice in North East Asia. Additionally, I am accountable for Project Management training and professional excellence across North East Asia. This includes setting and administering the budgets for APM related training (PFQ, PMQ, PQ, RPP).	As the Project, Programme and Commercial Management (PPCM) Leader for Mott MacDonald's Hong Kong operation, I have a 2018/ 2019 budget set aside for professional excellence and training which includes an allowance for APM related activities if appointed. I am therefore able to devote as much time within reason.
