

Connall McCafferty Thales' Bids & programmes apprenticeship

Connall McCafferty will discuss his first-hand experience on Thales' Bids & programmes apprenticeship and the exceptional benefits acquired from this opportunity.

Connall has completed a two year apprenticeship that has involved hands on job training while simultaneously working to complete his level 4 project management and APMG project planning & control foundation qualifications in England. Connall will discuss the balance between on the job training and education, and outline the key elements which were valuable in aiding him on completing his apprenticeship.

Connall has now secured himself a permanent position in project controls at Thales Belfast, and will talk about how he feels the apprenticeship has been a crucial element in enabling him to develop the skills and qualities needed to carry out the role of a project controller with confidence.
