Ayo	Alagbe	Full	Desire to contribute towards the development of the profession	10 years of industry experience, desire to volunteer and support the development of the profession.	1 to 2 hrs
Ralitsa	Arnaudova	Student	I graduated the University of Strathclyde in 2017 and since then I have been involved in supporting various projects with the Scottish Institute for Enterprise. Along with my full time role I also started my MSc Project Management degree (just finished Term 1) as I would like to work towards a career as a project manager, hopefully in the Higher Education sector. At the moment my focus is on learning as much as possible and gaining more experience supporting significant projects and I think as a member of the committee I will be given a chance to contribute whilst learning a lot at the same time. I have had a glance at the current committee, which consists of very experienced, motivated and successful individuals and would love to have the chance to learn from them and their valuable experience. I am hoping and I will do my best to be able to contribute as much as the other experienced committee members and would be honored if given the opportunity to join.	I am experienced in events management and marketing. My skills include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Event planning, design and execution • Events operations management • Marketing and PR • Digital marketing and social media • Effective communication • Excellent client/ customer service and support • Relationship management • Business development I will be happy to get involved in various projects and activities to help the APM Scotland Branch successfully deliver the planned activities for the year and meet its objectives.	Up to 5 hours a week.
Louise	Benwell	Full	I have enjoyed being a part of the committee for the past year and I think I am able to continue to make a positive contribution in the next year.	I am well organised and a proactive individual. I am keen to pass on my PM skills to others and to inspire the next generation.	1-2 hours

Matt	Bruce-Kingsmill	Fellow	As chair of the current committee I believe that volunteering with APM represents a hugely exciting opportunity to assist in moving APM forward to grow and support the PM Profession both locally within Scotland and in the wider community for the benefit of all. This along with supporting, nurturing and developing new PM talent within the profession is something that I am passionate about and firmly believe that APM can play a central role in influencing this area.	I believe that I bring a passionate and flexible people centric approach to the roles that I undertake whilst setting and maintaining a high standard of Integrity and belief in the vision and objectives targeted. Through communicating needs, plans and activities clearly with all parties involved I achieve successful outcomes and unity of direction. By continually engaging and encouraging colleagues in understanding the details of situations and scenarios I have achieved highly positive results both professionally and personally. This approach has allowed for strong relationships to be formed where influences, skillsets and values can complement each other to ensure that interactions mutually benefit all involved.	3.5hrs

Carrie	Canning	Associate	1. Having only recently joined the Project Management profession on a career change, I am new to the industry. I believe joining the association will provide me with invaluable experience, transferable knowledge and afford me competitive advantage, as I grow as a Project Manager within the industry. Experiences thus far have highlighted just how fast-paced and time consuming our world can be. My attraction to APM is that I will be part of an association, which will provide the communications to support organisational activities whether this be updates on industry trends, advances in technology or even changes in legislation. I am a firm believer in knowledge transfer, to me sharing knowledge is powerful and of course a two-way street. I hope I can offer up an equal share of help and support. Particularly, within an association of likeminded people working to help one another in reaching shared professional goals.	2. As noted previously, I am on a career change; I have joined my company Leidos as new graduate fresh from university. However, I have over 10 years work experience holding varied positions namely within the transport sector, specialising in Heavy Haulage. I identified very early in my initial career that adopting certain traits and characteristics would allow me to excel in my sector and grow in my position. These include open-mindedness, determination, self-reflection and the ability to see a wider picture. Whether I have been fully aware or not at times P3M has been prevalent throughout my roles. It's through knowledge and reflection that I've realised that I've been following these frameworks and methodologies, (albeit in bits and pieces) whether it be organising transport projects, group and individual projects in university or on a more obvious occasion with marketing projects during my time working at the Glasgow 2018 European Championships. I hope now to collaborate the skills I do have with the appropriate frameworks to be a valuable member of the APM community.	Available time per week may vary. This is mostly due to childcare constraints.
Shirley	Conway	Full	I have volunteered with the Scottish Committee for over 4 years and would like to continue to give something back to the project profession	Supporting the delivery of tge Schedule of events, conference and other committee activity. Promoting project profession and encouraging young project professionals.	circa 2-3 hours

Martin	Dunn	Full	I have been a full member of the APM for seven years (and prior to that an Associate) and have seen first-hand the benefits of membership of the association. I am eager to promote the benefits of the APM to wider audiences and, where I can, to help give something back to the profession.	I have almost 15 years' experience in project management across a wide range of disciplines/sectors (including aerospace, defence, renewable energies and construction). I enjoy taking the best aspects of project management in each sector and applying that knowledge for the benefit of current projects. I have previously held committee roles with the Royal Aeronautical Society including vice-chair of the Young Members Board (YMB) and member of the Avionics and Systems Specialist Group Committee. While serving on the YMB, I was also responsible for coordinating and delivering a series of roadshow presentations to universities across the UK. The purpose of the roadshows was to highlight the benefits of membership of the society to those preparing to enter the profession. I would be keen to bring this experience to serve on any initiatives led by the APM Scotland Branch.	On average I could spend 2hrs per week but would be happy to increase as necessary to support short term needs.

David	Fogerty	Full	I was accepted onto the Scotland Branch Committee at the last AGM, and enjoy the support we provide to promote the organisation and wider APM community. My primary role this year has been to lead the Edinburgh action group for the benefit of our members, while also volunteering and supporting other APM activities within the group. I initially studied for the APM qualification to extend the knowledge I have gained through my career in change and project management, which also complemented with my accounting qualification. The Scotland Committee actively encourage members to support the Branch and I have been a full member for over 3 years, regularly attending the Edinburgh, Glasgow, off-site events and Committee meetings. These event offerings are always interesting even if they are not in your particular area of knowledge, and would like to continue to make a contribution to support the organisation.	I have worked within change and project management in a variety of roles throughout the majority of my career in the finance sector. This has ranged from small internal operational and efficiency initiatives, managing teams to deliver projects, to managing major project deliveries with associated resource. I have managed all aspects of the project lifecycle within these roles and apply a practical approach to how project principles can be adopted and applied. I have also engaged with colleagues and management with less appreciation of these, for me to realise the benefits that the APM qualification brings. I have the flexibility to support the APM depending on what is required at relatively short notice. My employer is fully supportive of the application and I regularly provide updates to colleagues on the APM events to promote the organisational benefits and Chartership status	I currently lead the Edinburgh activities for the Scotland Branch of APM, working full time in Edinburgh. This has been demonstrated in how I support the APM regional branch activities and Committee as required and being able to plan my availability to readily support APM meetings and events.

Alan	Glennie	Associate	As a current committee member in both the Aberdeen action group, and the Scottish committee, I am keen to remain involved in order to continue the good work that has been going on. I fully believe in what the APM is trying to achieve and want to play my part in this. Although I have a busy job/life, I enjoy being associated with the APM and driving the cause and feel proud being a member. I have seen much better alignment with the Scottish committee and Aberdeen, Glasgow and Edinburgh and want to continue to improve this. I want to continue to be at the forefront of developments in order to develop myself and the corporate organisation I work for. Being a committee member gives me the opportunity to influence the development of the APM and allows me to provide some drive.	I have a long running affiliation with the APM. For over 10 years I have been attending local events and understand (and fully believe in) why the APM are looking to drive the profession. With over 30 years working on projects, I have a glut of experiences throughout the project lifecycle in a number of positions and thus I can see how good project management can affect everyone involved. On a personal front, I fully believe in what the APM are doing and want to volunteer and provide some drive and focus into the committee. I want to use my contacts, and encourage others, to continue to develop the collaboration with other associations and HEI's. In addition, I am very keen on developing other committee members, and to grow the Aberdeen and Scotland branches / action groups as required. I want to APM to be the best it can be.	From experience, I find that the required level of time needed on activities varies from month to month. As always, I am willing to provide as much time as I can to ensure that the committees (both Aberdeen and Scottish) operation in a successful manner to achieve their objectives. I am willing to give time to attend other events such as non-local events, volunteer weekends and conferences as an when I can (as I have in the past) as I enjoy being part of the APM volunteers team.

Amos	Haniff	Full	I have now been a member of APM for over 20 year. As professor of project management and former member of the APM Education Network I am actively advising and encouraging students on joining and developing in the project management profession. In my role I regularly promote APM activities and events and would be in a stronger position to do this as a committee member. But also, being on the committee would enable me to draw on the knowledge and valuable experiences of other committee members and take an active role in APM activities. Through participation as an APM Scotland committee member I will be able to widen my network with project management professionals and increase awareness of innovations in industry practices. I see this as an exciting opportunity, but also a benefit to the university, my teaching and public talks on project management.	As an APM Scotland committee member I would be able to support engagement and collaboration between APM and universities. This would involve promoting branch activities, such as the APM challenge, but also facilitating relationships, and possibly guest lectures, with the universities. I also have been involved in the graduate apprentice programme and can be of benefit in ensuring project management apprenticeships are at the forefront of discussions. Also, as a University Dean and Governor, I have significant experience in working on committees, in particular charities and public sector. I have organised a number of major events and international conferences and can make contribution in the planning and organising of APM events.	2-3 hours

Neil	Harkin	Associate	I have been involved with APM for over 10 years as a working PM, member, volunteer and also through my day job at an APM Accredited Training Provider. I spent several years as an active member of the Aberdeen Chapter committee and only gave it up because of changing pressures at work due to several very demanding, concurrent projects. I have learned so much through previous involvement with the APM Community and Events across the UK and this has broadened my perspectives on Project Management. Continuing my involvement with the Scotland Branch committee allows me to give something back to help others progress their project management careers.	I am a Project Manager working with medium to large corporates across Scotland and Board Director of an SME, so am painfully familiar of managing projects within limited budgets. I have 18 years' Board level experience and 25 years+ as a Project Manager across manufacturing, energy, petro-chemicals, construction and ICT. I hold APMP and PRINCE2 Practitioner, am a member of PMI and BCS's Project Management SiG so can see the pros and cons of differing PM standards and see of good project management as an agent for positive change. I also have previous experience of volunteering, I joined APM Scotland Branch committee at the 2016 AGM, have been on the judging panel for PM Challenge since 2016 and and am reasonably well connected into the APM Qualifications team. I am also an enthusiastic advocate for the APM and its' vision of a world where all projects succeed.	2-3 hours per week

Alan	Harper	Associate	Having attended many APM Scotland Branch CPD events in the past, I wanted to give back some of my time to enable others to benefit from these learning and networking opportunities. Last year (18/19), I was accepted to join the branch committee and I would like to continue being able to contribute to the branch for this coming year.	Having been a member of the branch committee last year (18/19) I was able to offer my service to the role of Comms & Social Media . At time of writing, there have been over one hundred tweets drafted and then scheduled to go out at key points in time. There have also been numerous tweets and social comms on the day of events. I was particularly happy to manage the branches social media content on the day of the Scottish Conference which saw multiple interactions with the main APM social feeds as well as other branch colleagues and conference delegates. I intend to facilitate an equal on-the-day presence during the branch's Project Challenge competition. If re-elected, I would continue to build on the social media opportunities to communicate and inform APM members with an interest in the Scotland Branch activities.	1-2hrs /w. As required at Branch CPD & other events.
Jonathan	Herbert	Full	I want to contribute more to the wider project management community and collaborate with like-minded people to deliver on the APM objectives of developing and promoting project and programme management.	I am a project professional with more than 20 years experience of managing technically complex engineering projects working both in the UK and abroad. I will bring an enthusiastic and engaging approach to the committee with a focus on listening to the other members and working together constructively to achieve the committee's aims.	I will be able to a 2-3 hours a week on branch activities. Of course, I can be flexible on this depending on the needs of the branch taking into account my work commitments.
Sunchana	Johnston	Fellow	To actively contribute to ongoing recognition/promotion of project management profession & to spend time with likeminded professionals.	Ethics, commitments, board level experiences, hard work, positive attitude, confidence, 20+ years of experience in variety of industries,	A couple of hours.

				membership & networking with WIBF WOB.
VIBESH	KARAYIL	Full	I would like to be part of a professional community which are providing great support to current and aspiring Project Managers. I have had great benefit being APM members and see this opportunity to offer my volunteering in return.	I can manage key stakeholders to achieve overall objectives of the scotland branch. I can contribute to planning of scotland branch activities and also actively lead activities aiming to meet the objectives.	2 hours
Michael	Lynch	Associate	I have been working with the branch as a volunteer over the past year and am keen to continue. I am committed to helping the profession progress and believe the APM Scotland Branch has had a great impact over the last 12 months and I would like to be a part of this going forward.	I am committed and am willing to put in extra hours in order to help the APM Scotland branch deliver more successful events. I have been helping with the project challenge this year and have also previously competed in the competition. I believe I can play a prominent role in improving the project challenge, following on from an extremely positive competition for 2019.	3-5
Stacey	McQueenie	Associate	After being in the APM project challenge I appreciated the work that went into it & wanted to be part of the bigger picture of APM.	I am a well organised people person, which I think are great qualities for joining the APM committee. What I lack in PM experience I excel in motivation to learn from the team.	1-3 hours a week
Garry	Murphy	Full	I have been a Committee Member for 2 years and wish to continue in my role to help promote our profession	I am passionate about the future of our profession and, in my day job, speak to schools, universities etc to encourage students to consider PM as a career. I want to use this experience to also promote the APM. Also, as one of the first ChPP in Scotland I want to help others considering this qualification	Approx 2 hrs per week

Kenneth	Nicolson	Associate	In recent years I've been responsible for Project Managing scopes with varying levels of complexity, which inspired me to pursue APM accreditation. In August 2018 I successfully achieved the APM Project Management Qualification (PMQ) (IMPA Level D Certification) and in doing so became an Associate Member of the APM. Throughout my career I've strived for personnel professional development and moreover to promote the development of others. I've attended many APM and Institution events and more recently enlisted on the ECITB Oil and Gas Project Management Mentoring Programme to further my development. As I continue on my Project Management journey and progression through APM membership levels, I want to be involved in the promotion of the APM, assist the Association, further develop on a personal level and ultimately help others in the pursuit of membership, by providing support through my ambition and enthusiasm.	I believe I've demonstrated and continue to establish the APM Five Dimensions of Professionalism framework in my career to date. As a Chartered Engineer & Project Manager with over 10 years' global experience, I've been responsible for delivery of full project life-cycles to a wide array of projects, environments and global locations; with a breadth and depth of knowledge and experience in Civil, Transportation, Energy, Oil & Gas and Decommissioning workstreams. I believe I bring significant diversity and depth of experience due to my exposure to this range of environments and having had significant exposure to managing scope, schedule, finance, risk, quality and resources; from early year summer placements as a Site Engineer, cycle path design in the Scottish Borders, Structural Assessment of Bridges for Network Rail in London, Highway Maintenance Programmes in Northern Ireland, Field Expansion projects offshore Nigeria and more recently Decommissioning and Abandonment for BP.	To give an anticipated range, I would be able to dedicate between 2 to 4 hours a week to the branch activities – with an appreciation and willingness that assistance in preparing for events and the requirements of the role will necessitate additional time to be dedicated.

Fraser	Payne	Student	I was motivated to apply for the APM Scotland Branch Committee based on my practical and academic experience within the Project Management field. Having utilised techniques such as Scrum, Kanban and Waterfall for client projects, I have a current knowledge of the latest project management methods and how these are implemented within a professional context. Furthermore, my insight into digital project management platforms such as Trello will be advantageous as APM Scotland looks to advise members of the latest digital tools to better manage projects.	I would bring my experience in using Agile Project Management techniques to the APM Branch Committee. I would be able to share knowledge with fellow committee members and update them on changes and developments within the ever-changing industry. Furthermore, my research skills derived from my studies will be advantageous for the APM Scotland branch committee. With experience conducting large-scale research projects and analysing results, I would utilise this knowledge to assess key developments within Project Management and report on findings to branch members.	5 Hours
Richard	Pearson	Full	The APM has played an extremely positive role in my career to date and I am thus passionate about the opportunity to help develop and promote the APM to ensure others are able to develop as I have. I am extremely focussed, motivated and ambitious on progressing professionally and see the APM as the lead organisation, not only in the construction sector but across many others, to provide the platform to achieving this. As a Construction Project Manager I can offer a wealth of knowledge and experience to the APM Scotland Branch Committee. I believe that being a committee member provides a great platform to assist less experienced Project Managers, whilst also plays a pivotal role in attracting new members. I am eager to assist with the Scotland Branch delivering their programme of activities aligned to the	I have built up first-hand experience in both public and private sectors which has provided exposure to a variety of major projects and clients throughout Scotland and the UK. I have benefited from working with a diverse group of professionals which has aided my professional development in becoming a Project Manager at an International Construction Consultancy. I am an effective and proactive Project Manager. Proficient at working both remotely and in a team environment, I am quick to adapt, organise and lead. My strongest skill is building positive and collaborative working relationships with clients and peers. I am always keen to gain an understanding of how my peers operate in other sectors and what aspects of our work we can share, adopt and promote. I am excited about	2-3 hours

			APM 2020 Strategy and excited to increase my involvement in the APM community.	the opportunity to become part of the APM Scotland Branch Committee, not only for the next term but for future years too.
Greg	Philp	Full	I have now been on the Scotland branch committee for two full years and I am really excited by the positive work that is being done. We have a really strong, active committee of project professionals who are continuing to build strong links with higher education institutes and corporate partners alike, and with more interest coming from younger committee members and experienced practitioners alike, the future is looking healthy. I would be delighted to continue supporting the work of the branch and the wider organisation.	With two years' experience on committee, one of those as branch treasurer, I have a good working knowledge of the branch and our activities and an established network within the profession. I work centrally in Glasgow and share responsibility for coordinating all Glasgow area CPD events, with additional oversight of all branch CPD activities as Events Coordinator.	1-2 hours on average, as required.

Adam	Quin	Full	I am motivated to share my experience with less experienced people and I am also motivated to enhance my own knowledge and experience by shared learning. I have been impressed with the resources and topics covered by APM website and conferences and I feel I can contribute to that to future proof the current success.	In my role as senior auditor (project assurance) I provide excellent written and oral communications. I have the ability to communicate at all levels. I work closely with the Head of Audit SPS providing detailed factual and evidence based reports on sensitive subject matter. I have a sound knowledge of most mediums of communication and I am competent in I.T. utilising a variety of software packages to deliver my reports and findings, and to communicate with my team and clients. In my current role I provide assurance for all key projects undertaken by SPS. In order to do this I had to design and develop an assurance specification. This allows the project manager to communicate their own independent narrative on the projects progress prior to any actual audit. In designing this communication tool I consulted with several internal stakeholders and this document, now provides the basis for all project audits within SPS. During the research phase I recognised that some project managers were new to role with little or no experience. I have a background in training and I am able to identify needs and recommend development practices to benefit individuals and teams. I bring skills and experience from management roles and auditing of high level Projects and Programmes within the public sector.	I could give a couple of hours a week to branch activities if required.

Erin	Slater	Full	I have been involved in the APM Scotland Branch since 2014 and have thoroughly enjoyed my time on the branch. I therefore wish to put myself forward for election to the 2019/20 branch to allow me to continue providing my services to APM.	I have demonstrated during my time on the branch my dedication and keenness. I have acted as secretary for 3 terms now and shown my abilities in this role.	4 hours.
John	Stevenson	Full	A drive and desire to assist the APM and the Project community in Scotland to build an integrated network and support structure to be proud of that offers everyone with an interest in Projects, the best possible chance of success in whatever their role is or will be. We need a thriving Project community with the skills and leadership capabilities to shape the Scottish economy into the future. I am also a member of both the Institute of Engineering Technology and the Institute of Brewing & Distilling and have a number of affiliations with other organisations, all of which provides a multi-dimensional view on how such organisations have developed. I believe that i have acquired the right blend of skills, experience and core competencies - including the benefit of hindsight in some instances - to make a real contribution to the APM in Scotland.	A RPP with 30+ years experience of designing, developing and delivering projects across the public and private sector with experience in a number of client, consultant and contractor roles. Key experience in water, oil & gas and whisky sectors - all key to the future success of Scotland. I am now working as a Projects Director with a multi-award winning bio-tech SME to scale up a process taking waste residues from the whisky industry to create clean bio-fuels, solvents and animal feed - which has been at the sharp end of business entrepreneurship in a complex political landscape of competing priorities between Holyrood, Westminster and Brussels - all extremely useful in a business development context. It's one thing having the technology, it's another thing altogether developing it and scaling it up in a fragmented, albeit supportive, environment.	Around 4-8 hours per week on average.
Nicola	Thomson	Full	I have recently become chartered. I have seen the good work of the APM in Scotland and wish to give something back to APM. I am promoting APM within my organisation and assist my colleagues to become future APM members and gain appropriate qualifications.	I am APM chartered project manager and have nearly 20 years experience in project management, working on a large number of multi-disciplinary railway projects. I am enthusiastic and want to pass on my experience to other project management colleagues.	1-2 hours
