

COLLABORATING TO DELIVER PROJECTS

Speaker:

Name: Jonathan Norman

Talk Title: The Project Managers' Dilemma – Why Collaboration Should be Easy

Description: 'The Project Managers' Dilemma', a variation on a classic decision analysis game, will enable the delegates to experience the fundamental dynamics and constraints behind collaboration. The group will then apply what they have learned during the game to establish a set of guiding principles for successful collaboration. The session will help teach delegates how to plan and design for collaboration in their own projects.

Bio: After a career of 30 years in business publishing, during which he worked on books, management games and training videos, Jonathan Norman now manages the Major Projects Knowledge Hub on behalf of the Major Projects Association. The hub is an open access community of practice knowledge repository and Jonathan's role involves, content creation and curation; managing and facilitating events and other knowledge sharing activities; engaging and communicating with members.
