

First name:	Surname:	Brief overview of your background and experience in this SIG subject matter: (maximum 150 words)	What motivated you to put yourself forward for election to the APM Programme Management SIG committee? (maximum 150 words)	What qualities, skills and experience do you think you'll bring to the APM Programme Management SIG committee? (maximum 150 words)
Chris	Beach	My career started as a Chartered Civil Engineer and Project Manager. After several years delivering a range of infrastructure projects I moved into Programme Management advising senior leaders on the best approaches to successfully gain business benefits from their change programmes. I have been involved in the delivery of Multi-billion pound programmes across Rail, Aviation, Water and Buildings sectors, most recently including programmes at Heathrow Airport and Thames Tideway Tunnel. As Director of Programme and Project Solutions with Wood Plc, I lead the Service line across sectors with a focus on the development of programme management capability, knowledge and best practice to meet our clients' needs. Prior to joining Wood I was a Partner at Arcadis where I led the Programme Management Community of Practice and before that I led the Transport for London Investment Programme Management Office providing oversight of the	In the past I have supported APM SIGs through membership of the Portfolio Management SIG Committee and as a member of the Programme Management SIG Committee for the past 2 years and Co Chair in for the past 2 years. As part of my role I am keen to increase the interface with the APM and help support the sharing of Programme Management best practice, insight and innovation. Organisations are now generally recognising the benefits that can be achieved through a programmatic approach to delivering change initiatives and as a profession we need to create the knowledge, approaches and tools to enable greater efficiency and productivity. I am keen to play a part in supporting the development of the programme management profession to achieve this.	I am a long standing MSP Practitioner and aligned to this theoretical knowledge I have extensive practical experience of developing and implementing best practice in Programme Management. I am enthusiastic towards the development of connected communities to facilitate the sharing and development of knowledge that will enable the value of the programme management discipline to be fully understood and adopted by organisations to bring tangible benefits. delivery of capital programmes exceeding £2bn p.a.

Nigel	Beecroft	I am an senior programme manager with experience in several work sectors and extensive practice on railway projects and programme including major infrastructure construction, change programmes and IT implementation. My current role includes integration of a £0.5bn infrastructure programme.	Existing Programme SIG committee member for which I have contributed to the Committee's objectives e.g. production of Blogs and volunteering at the Annual SIG conference.	Experience in programme management Organisation skills Professional networks
Richard	Cairnes	Experienced programme professional and Director in Currie & Brown's London Project & Programme Management team. Responsible for the management of the Pharmaceutical, Life Science, Government & Defence team providing leadership, management and service delivery to clients and programme teams. Recent experience includes: * Department for Environment Food & Rural Affairs (DEFRA), BAU Science Estate Capital Works programme – Framework Manager and Director responsible for service delivery. * North Tandridge One Public Estate Programme – Director responsible for programme management service delivery and stakeholder management. * BOC Limited, Small Works Programme – Account manager and service delivery lead for a small works programme	I am a motivated, experienced programme professional and a Member of the Association of Project Management (APM), with an interest in raising the awareness of programme management, as a specific discipline within the APM and the wider global industry. I've been a committee member of the APM Programme Management SIG committee since 2019 and being re-elected will help me give something back to the industry, profession and the APM and its members. I will do this through promoting programme management awareness, providing thought leadership on appropriate subject matter topics, collaboration, providing knowledge sharing and transfer in appropriate tools, processes and areas of good practice and championing a programmatic approach to delivery.	A collaborative programme manager with excellent communication, client and stakeholder management qualities and skills. Professional Member of the Association of Project Management and a Chartered Surveyor with nearly 20 years' experience in a wide variety of sectors including pharmaceutical, life science, government & defence, pharmaceutical & life science projects and programmes for the private and public sectors. In November 2019, I published an external 'thought leadership' article on Change Management which evaluated the importance of change management, using programmes as a delivery vehicle for the change implementation process.

		across the UK and Eire. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * Metropolitan Police Service, Programme10 and 11 – Shadow Director responsible for programme management and service delivery. * The Vaccine Manufacturing & Innovation Centre (VMIC) – Tenant Representative on Project 1 associated with the construction of the Governments Pandemic response facility (part of a multi-project programme). 		I presented at a One Public Estate (OPE) Programme roundtable event in June 2019, as one of Currie & Brown’s government experts, discussing with attendees whether the OPE was an essential public sector programme delivery tool. I also presented at the Surrey Constructing Excellence Club’s September 2019 event on OPE programme management delivery, methodology, tools and processes.
James	Callanan	James has worked on and led bids, projects and programmes in the defence and aerospace industry for 13 years. He has gradually taken on more responsibility during his career at BAE Systems, Collins Aerospace and now at Thales. During his time at Collins Aerospace, James was a Programme Manager from 2014-17 before being promoted to oversee a portfolio of Programmes until 2019. James has recently joined Thales Avionics UK as Head of Bid & Project Management where he is responsible for tools, processes and the professional development of over 70 bid, project and planning professionals. James is passionate about delivering benefits and outcomes to customers, underpinned by a sound and robust programme management approach. He	James has been involved in delivery roles for the past 13 years and with his recent move to Thales as Head of Bid & Project Management, has been able to adopt an increasingly strategic outlook to programme management. In this capacity, he has been able to use his knowledge and experience to the wider benefit of the Avionics UK business. He has found this to be hugely rewarding and would like the opportunity to share his knowledge more widely within the APM community. James also acts as a governor to a local school, which he has thoroughly enjoyed. Furthermore, to compliment this he is seeking other professional development opportunities, with an aim to broaden his network and influence on programme management.	James is a dedicated and passionate project professional, who is keen to influence and improve the professionalism of programme practitioners. His balance of practical experience, supervisory/sponsorship roles and functional leadership allows him to contribute in both a pragmatic, as well as in a more idealistic manner towards the SIG. Having work on programmes of varying size and across air, land and sea, James has an abundance of examples and practice to draw upon to improve programme management delivery practices. James also very much believes in digitally enabled, collaborative methods to enable effective programme management, which can be more challenging has used his programme management knowledge and experience to delivery £1B plus bids and to delivery multi-million £ programmes.		given the security constraints involved in the defence industry.

John	Chapman	A contributor to Managing Successful Programmes 1st edition, member of the authoring group of the Gower Handbook of Programme Management, author of Project and Programme Accounting, 20+ years experience in programme and project management, author of 3 other books on project management,	Have been an active member of the SIG Committee leading the communication activities. With the challenges arising from Covid-19 am keen to assist in promoting thought leadership in programme delivery.	As noted above, author and contributing author to a number of books on programme and project manager. Regular blogger (written and video) which includes being guest blogger for the Major Projects Hub in February 2020. A wealth of on the ground delivery experience working.
James	Lesingham	Worked with the SIG for the last 4 years and currently work as change project managers to deliver a programme of projects and initiatives.	Working with the committee and volunteering with the APM is something I really enjoy. I working with other brilliant project professionals this provides a great platform for learning and gaining useful insights.	My passion for the profession and drive to make things happen. In addition to my experience with working with the SIG I have also got experience working with in a programme environment and managing change.
Muhammad	Naeem	I have been actively involved in the SIG activities including organizing a national workshop on Programme Mgm. I have 22 years of practical experience of delivering multi million projects and programmes in Asia, ME and Europe.	I am a fellow with APM and in the PM field for the last 22 years. I have extensively delivered programmes and projects across the globe in infrastructure and construction fields in a diversified environment. This is the time in my career, where I feel that its my responsibility to share my knowledge and experience with wider PM community and SIG programme is the right forum to achieve this.	Sharing wider Networking, Blogs writing on PM to share with wider community, successful delivery of PM across the globe in a diversified environment, PM skills and training and mentoring young PM to achieve their goals.

Penny	Pullan	Previous Chair of Programme Management SIG. Co-author of the next release of Managing Successful Programmes (TSO 2020). Volunteer for the SIG for many years. Consultant and author. Speaker for the SIG on many occasions.	I'd like to continue to give back to APM.	Experience, volunteer experience, virtual leadership and speaking skills.
Alireza	Rezaei	I've got several years of practical experience in project programme and time management in public and private projects back in my country. I have also taught several UG and PG modules in construction management and time management and supervised a number of MSc thesis in this field.	I think my academic and practical background in this field will be helpful and beneficial to be shared with other members.	Teaching specific topics within programme management and possibility of running workshops on MS Project.
James	Taylor	Seven years as programme manager in Network Rail being accountable for: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The concept and definition stages for national level crossing renewals • Three Transport & Works Act applications to close more than 100 level crossings, requiring extensive consultation with statutory and public stakeholders and three public inquiries • Development input to internal clients for complex, externally funded infrastructure projects • Leading a Programme of technology projects through the full project lifecycle including benefits realization • Most recently leading a programme of works introducing intelligent infrastructure to the railway through 	My motivation is to renew my participation with the Programme Management SIG having experienced an enjoyable first year with this SIG. I have met some really welcoming and friendly fellow SIG members, learning from them and developing my programme management skills in the process. I have had my first APM blog published, helped with the organisation and running of the SIG's annual conference, represented the SIG at Midlands branch meetings, and arranged meeting facilities for face to face meetings. Overall I feel this has helped me to contribute to the APM having enjoyed the benefits of membership over a number of years. I am keen to continue my participation with	I was a Chair of school governors for 5 years so understand how committees work. In addition to my APM chartership and qualifications I have a post Graduate Diploma in Industrial and Operations Management, an MBA from the University of Birmingham (Highly respected Birmingham Business school, Edgbaston), experience of working in different countries, continents, and cultures as well as slightly rusty knowledge of written and spoken German language. I am also a Managing Successful Programmes practitioner and a qualified member of Network Rail's coaching pool. I combine the

		agile methodology 11 years rail industry experience including sponsorship of complex infrastructure projects within £9b West Coast Route Modernisation, programme managing maintenance improvement campaigns, asset management and asset strategy development, and various project delivery roles. 15 years experience within Multi National Enterprises, which included: Plant management, international marketing, new business development including working in America, Asia, and in Europe in written and spoken German language.	this SIG and build on my learning and experience of the last 12 months	competencies and skills learned during my career and combine them with positive attitude to lead by example and deliver complex solutions by applying a multi-disciplined skill set and excellent cross-functional leadership to get things done. I would welcome the opportunity to bring these qualities to support and develop the work of this SIG.
Vivianne	Walters	Within a year of managing various projects early in my career of over 30 years, I was managing programmes of with a related vision of providing national infrastructure for government projects. Later moved to parastatal and private programme management and international assignments.	APM is moving towards providing the 'new' normal way of project management – an exciting growth in the industry. It extends the range of collaboration with industry practitioners worldwide.	I am able engage and communicate effectively at all levels with strong stakeholder and relationship management skills. Manage design, development and delivery from end to end including risks/opportunities.
Ben	Whitlock	Worked in industry with over 20 years' of experience delivering major international programmes and leading delivery functions. Formerly Head of Project & Programme Management for a FTSE 100 company - responsible for building a programme organisation delivering in excess of £1bn per annum whilst developing the strategy and	I particularly enjoy being able to give something back to the profession; helping to define / capture best-practices and bringing the community together through the annual PgM conference. I've really enjoyed working with the PgM SIG for the past 2 years and believe there is a lot more we can do over the next year to move the discipline forwards.	I bring considerable experience of applying traditional programme management, but also of introducing new approaches such as Agile and adaptive frameworks to delivering programmes. I believe that programme management needs to adapt and innovate to remain relevant in the future's

		capability to meet future growth. I am now a Management Consultant, specialising in helping well-known companies improve their programme management delivery and carry out business transformations. Internationally certified in Project Management (ChPP, PMP), with a background in all stages of project delivery, PMO setup and project governance in highly regulated industries and government contracts. Significant experience running consultancy operations and leading transformational change within a business. After years of delivering projects and programmes, I understand the value of developing a clear vision, building stakeholder relationships and focussing on building the right teams.		changing landscape. Last year, with a small team I helped organise the inaugural APM South West conference. This year the second event is titled the “Evolving Project Manager”, looking at how the discipline needs to evolve to build a sustainable future. I would like to bring this experience and the ideas raised to the PgM SIG. The C-19 pandemic has shown programme management to be a discipline that can cut across industries to make responses work – having been involved in this from many angles, I would like to be part of building on what we have learned and the increased recognition that programme management has received.
--	--	--	--	--