

Nomination	Membership level	What motivated you to put yourself forward for election to the Scotland branch committee?	What qualities, skills and experience do you think you'll bring to the Scotland branch committee?
Munther Mahsoub	Full	It is an opportunity to give back what I know of project management, propagate the profession, and be part of the new association.	Understanding of projects in different sectors (electronics, software, construction, nuclear, and oil and gas), communication skills and project management.
Stephen Lindsay	Associate	I have worked in the civil engineering consultancy industry since I graduated as a civil engineer in 2002. Having gained significant technical experience, 5years ago I decided to divert my career towards Project Management as I believe there are great opportunities ahead - not only from a career perspective, but also from a personal development perspective. Defined Project Management careers in this industry is gaining momentum but not considered as valuable as it should by some old fashioned institutions, processes and people. I am passionate about raising the profile and the benefits good Project Management can deliver. Within my day to day job, I also fulfil the role as Project Management Champion to help support the roll out of new processes, develop a community and provide support. I hope to assist the Scotland Branch in the same way. In addition, I know the role would significant benefit myself as well.	I have the typical profile of an engineer - logical thinker, follows processes and thrives to solve problems. On top of this I am also a good communicator with well developed interpersonal skills and can work well in a team. I also bring a level of integrity as a qualified Chartered Engineer with the Institution of Civil Engineers. I have +15years experience working in the heavy civils industry and have worked on the largest PPP (Metronet) to the most expensive motorway per mile in the U.K. (M74 Completion Project. I have worked with Atkins since graduating. Atkins is one of the worlds most respected design and engineering consultancies, who fully support my application. I believe I can add value to the Scotland Branch and hopefully the synopsis above portrays that. Thanks, Stephen.
Garry Murphy	Full	I have attended a number of local branch events over the past 8 years and have been impressed by the type and nature of events. I am keen to contribute to the development of the local branch and assist local members where possible; particularly encourage and help those wanting to pursue chartership	As a RPP, I believe I can bring some knowledge and experience of this process to help candidates pursue this qualification. Furthermore, I have a significant number of industry contacts and I believe this will allow me to raise the profile of the APM
Stephen O'Brien	Full	The opportunity to learn and to contribute. I view this as a way to broaden my experience while giving something back to the profession and hopefully helping out some others along the way.	The primary quality I'll bring is an enthusiasm to get involved and contribute. In terms of skills and experience I'll be broadly along the lines of any other Project Manager.
Alan Glennie	Associate	As a current committee member, and representative for the Aberdeen chapter, I now have experience of the objectives / information flow between the two and want to develop the relationship to maximise results e.g. align objectives. I still believe in what the APM is doing for the profession and I am keen to develop the engagement between the APM and industry (local companies and corporate members).	I have enthusiasm and belief in what the APM are doing and want to bring these traits to the Scottish committee. I have experience working with people at all levels within projects and feel I can engage with all to promote the APM to increase interest in the events and the APM in general.

Matt Bruce-Kingsmill	Full	As a member of the current committee I believe that APM's recently awarded chartered status represents a hugely exciting opportunity to assist in moving APM forward to grow and support the PM Profession both locally within Scotland and contribute to the wider community for the benefit of all. This along with supporting, nurturing and developing new PM talent within the profession is something that I am passionate about and firmly believe that APM can play a central role in influencing this area.	I believe that I bring a passionate and flexible people centric approach to the roles that I undertake whilst setting and maintaining a high standard of Integrity and belief in the vision and objectives targeted. Through communicating needs, plans and activities clearly with all parties involved I achieve successful outcomes and unity of direction. By continually engaging and encouraging colleagues in understanding the details of situations and scenarios I have achieved highly positive results both professionally and personally. This approach has allowed for strong relationships to be formed where influences, skillsets and values can complement each other to ensure that interactions mutually benefit all involved.
Ayo Alagbe	Full	I motivated by the belief that volunteering will provide an opportunity to network with project management professionals and contribute to the discipline within Scotland. Furthermore, I have enjoyed and benefited from attending APM CPD events over the past couple of years - which I believe would not have been possible without volunteers - and would like to play a part in sustaining the organisation of such events	I am passionate about project management as a professional specialisation, and promoting the profession. I believe that CPD is crucial for all project managers - particularly junior professionals - to deliver within increasingly complex project environments, and for us all as professionals, to cement the reputation of our discipline. I will bring my passion for the project management profession to the committee, alongside dedication, a can do attitude, and the willingness to support in any capacity in order to ensure the success of the branch committee.
Martin Robertson	Full	Would like to offer my experience whilst getting to meet and develop new contacts/business relationships with members in Scotland as my experience/contacts/business relationships are concentrated in London where i have been based for over 10 years	Good organisational and management skills. Can work on own initiative or work well in a team environment. Broad range of experience gained in 10 years working in a Project Management capacity on some of the most challenging and complex aviation and rail projects in the country.

Barry Nicol	Full	I personally want to give something back to the APM and reach out to the different project management professions within the APM, to learn and share. Over the past few years, the APM has 'energized' my own personal career development and provided invaluable knowledge, information and support. I believe by joining the Scotland Branch Committee will be a great platform to return the effort and constant hard work that goes in to support our APM community.	I will bring to the Scotland Branch Committee the following blend of six behaviors; 'EDGE' – Make positive but hard decisions that are right for the APM 'EXICTE' – Inspire others to out perform 'EXECUTE' – Get the job done and done well 'ENERGY' – Create pace and momentum to deliver 'EMPATHISE' – Listen and learn 'EMPOWER' - Provide clear direction and target's along with trusting others to deliver In terms of my experience I have worked for Balfour Beatty for over 20 years ,joining back in 1990 as a trainee site engineer and working my up to my current position as project manager within our Scottish business. I am an Articulate and strategic Project Manager, APM/ IPMA Level B certified having recently completed RPP, with a proven track record of leading complex projects and forming meaningful business relationships. I am very approachable with sound commercial judgment, and very much enjoy socialising and networking .
Greg Philp	Student	I joined the APM in 2014 when I began seeking formal qualifications in Project Management and I have seen many of the benefits that result from being a member. Before the closing date for this survey I will have submitted and presented my masters dissertation, and at a recent event Gavin Burrows was speaking to the value of the Association for Project Management at the University of the West of Scotland in Paisley. If I can affect change and bring half the value that I know Gavin has to the association over the past few years then that will be a job well done.	I have been actively involved with the Round Table for the last 6 years, running and planning various events from fundraisers to fireworks displays. Coupled with my experience in the workplace, both in the pharmaceutical industry and in software development, I have a real passion for project management and would hope that enthusiasm carries across and will encourage others to become more involved.
Sunchana Johnston	Full	Desire to contribute, advocate APM Values, and to share my skillset + practical experiences in this area, thanks.	20+ years practical experience as a Project / Programme Management Professional.
Shirley Conway	Full	I am an active member of the committee and have been for 2 years now. In the last year I have been involved in supporting the Scottish Conference and the work to develop it, the set up and running of a number of events and in judging the early submissions for the project challenge and mentoring one of the teams. I would like to continue my involvement with the APM Scotland committee and continue to contribute to shaping and delivering for our Scottish membership.	I am a willing and enthusiastic individual who can help with the planning and support of our programme of events and activities in Scotland. I have 25+ years experience as a Project Manager which I believe contributes to the committee's work.

Gavin Gilchrist	Associate	Having been at several APM events I wanted to contribute and help spread the message about Project Management. I witnessed the effect on junior and senior PM's when like minded professionals were able to congregate and discuss their experiences. It was also a great way to learn about best practice from various industries and sectors to share and learn some new ideas. I wanted to help. I also want to help and motivate young people into project management showing them a path and provide guidance from the lessons I have learned.	I have over 7 years of project mgt experience from 3 different sectors and can bring good communication skills to the committee. I am driven, enthusiastic and very organised to assist with planning committee events. I am a trained 6-Sigma Green Belt which proves my problem solving capabilities and always looking for best practice and the best way to achieve goals and objectives. I am a peoples person and can communicate at all levels and participate effectively in individual and group discussions.
Erin Slater	Associate	I have been in the committee for several years now and have spent the past 12 months undertaking the secretary role. I enjoy being an active member of the Scottish branch committee and delivering events for the members, in turn contributing to the success of APM.	I bring my organisational skills, my people skills and the experience I have gained from being a committee member to date. I also have experience of how the branch and APM as a whole operates.
Aaron Ankrah Smith	Associate	I have been with the Committee for 3 years and I have had the Chance to meet interesting and knowledgeable project professionals along the way, whom I have been able to learn a lot from.	I will bring the past experience I have gained through the years at the committee to help move the committee forward.
Varghese Mathew	Full	I have part of the committee for over 8 years and been leading the SPMC for over 7 years. I feel my experience and dedication would be an asset to the APM	I am a senior PM in Leonardo and my experience in the APM would assist in organising and delivering different events and push the work APM does to a wider group of people.
Jakaria Rahman	Full	To contribute towards spreading knowledge of project management and what the APM can do to help.	Experienced project manager with a drive to make a contribution and add value.
