WHO WE ARE

We're Association for Project Management – APM. We're the only chartered membership organisation representing the project profession in the world, building the profile and respect the profession warrants and setting the most exacting standards. We're a registered charity, delivering education and developing qualifications, conducting research and providing resources. We run events, share best practice and give the project management community – individuals and businesses – the opportunity to connect and debate.

There are a number of ways in which you can benefit from what we do, including: our free Student membership, professional qualifications, publications, research support and events.

We created this guide for students on project management degrees as well as those with an interest in the project profession.
