Karlene Agard	Associate	I began working as a Risk and Value Analyst in Network Rail in 2013, where I became a Certified Value Analyst with the Institute of Value Management and successfully undertook the Advanced Value Management training. During this time, I developed a passion for applying value management to major projects and programmes, leading studies for Crossrail 2, Thameslink and the Wessex Improvement Programme. I was awarded the 'Value Management Impact' award at Network Rail, partly in recognition of my pioneering approach to combining risk and value management.	Ironically, I feel that value management is not valued to the extent that it should be, particularly in the UK. Given the current economic pressures and organisations desires to cut costs (often times without a real understanding of value and how it can inform this decision making), it is crucial that value management is better understood and more widely applied. I have seen the quality of events from the APM: they were instrumental in shaping my understanding of benefits realisation management and change management, which preceded my involvement in value management and were complementary. I would like to be involved in raising the profile of value management and the APM is an excellent forum to do so.	I am on the steering board for the Institute of Risk Management's Risk Agenda for 2025. This will help stakeholders, risk leaders and managers better align their expectations for risk management in the future - 2025. Engaging with membership and getting their views is a key part of my role on the board. As an advocate of value management, I delivered a presentation at the Institute of Risk Management (on 2nd June 2017) on how risk professionals could use value management to enhance their work, focusing on how: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• functional analysis system technique can be used to identify opportunities,</li> <li>• stakeholder analysis and management can inform risk identification and management</li> <li>• lessons learned can become a dynamic and useful risk management solution, rather than an archive of materialised threats.</li> </ul> I have also promoted value management (alongside risk and project management) to secondary school students at a number of career fairs.	1-2 hours. I'd dedicate more when needed.
Steve Parker	Full	Chair of the Institute of Value management. Qualified Professional in Value Management (PVM). Certified MoV Practitioner. Led over 50 VM workshops. Designed, launched and managed VM corporate programmes for 3 organisations. Regular conference speaker on VM.	Desire to extend and update the discipline, making it relevant for today's clients and professionals. Desire to influence government and professions about the benefits of elevating VM in their agendas.	Knowledge of the evolution of VM thinking and practice. Experience as a seasoned VM practitioner. Ability to blend VM with other disciplines e.g. benefits and lean six sigma.	4-5 Hours
Jeremy Warhurst	Associate	Value SiG Volunteer for 4 years. MSc Strategic Project Management lecturer	To continue the development of the SiG, culminating in greater Values+Value Mgt insight for APM members	Equally academic and practice based approach	1 hour
Annmarie Sanderson	Student	With 29 Years of PM experience in multiple industries. I have been part of the VM Sig for over 8 years and I am motivated to share my experiences with fellow APM members.	To formalise my activities with the sig and give something back as a volunteer.	I am a fully trained facilitator as well as having a wealth of experience with all aspects of PM. I believe I can continue to learn and give something back to the APM.	Half a day.
Adam Roberts	Full	I have worked at London Underground as a Project Manager over the 10 years and I am now currently working in the Middle East. Throughout my career I have always been called on to complete Value Management studies. I have attained the practitioner certification in	I have been on the committee over the past 4 years and although I am no longer in the UK I would like to remain involved in the committee, remotely.	I have completed numerous Value Management studies, I am certificated in Value Management and I am continually looking at new and better ways of implementing a Value driven solution	It would depend on the requirement and need for my input

APM Value Management Specific Interest Group committee nominations 2017/18

		Value Management and I am currently working on a PhD which is focussed around Value Management.
John Heathcote	Full	I've facilitated VM workshops, enjoyed the benefits of them as a practicing PM. And now include the principles and a value perspective in my MSc teaching. I am actively researching in this area.	I'd like to continue with the work we have planned and promote to the profession and members in particular what I believe is a critical perspective on managing projects.	I've been chair to then SiG and contributed to outputs in several areas while wearing my PM hat.	I've been actively freeing my time up recently and expect to be able to give up a half day a week. This will mean some weekends and overnights and day events on occasion.
Shaun Mangan	Full	Project planner with 10 years experience working on Rail, Water, Construction and oil and gas projects. Being a planner i like to add value by looking at the future/ lifecycle of the project to anticipate potential issues and look at opportunities to enhance a project. Being a planner puts me a position to see opportunities that others may miss.	i've been part of this committee for over 4 years now and enjoy taking part in debating and looking at bringing value in a variety of ways.	Writing blogs for the APM SIG to challenge people's views as well as my fellow committee members on value related topics. My cradle to grave experience from planning projects gives me unique insights at every level from concept, design and construction to look at previous mistakes, and potential opportunities for current and future projects in terms of maximising value.	4 hours a week, reviewing topics, creating blogs and posts to further peoples understanding of value management.
David Golding	Full	Whilst working earlier in my career I have been involved with Value Management on Highway scheme. Having done scheme concepts back in 2007 for Area 12. After this time I have been an active member of the VM Sig, attending Forums and Volunteering for the APM.	I've been an active member of the Value Management Sig for around 10 years now and have been an APM member for more than 5 years.	I believe I have an all round knowledge base of Project Management. And Value Management is one of my key areas. The last forum aided other sigs to get an insight into what Value Management can bring to their Sigs.	1-2 hours per week.
Peter Langley	Full	Led a VM facilitation team in a water company for 5 years and routinely acted as an independent challenger on many projects and programmes. Taught VM at Leeds Beckett University and Bolton Community College.	This is a continuation of an existing VM committee membership. I am still passionate that Value is the real requirement of projects rather than outputs or benefits.	Years of experience as a practitioner and a teacher of VM.	Mostly retired now so few limits.
