

First name:	Surname:	Brief overview of your background and experience in this SIG subject matter: (maximum 150 words)	What motivated you to put yourself forward for election to the APM Contracts and Procurement SIG committee? (maximum 150 words)	What qualities, skills and experience do you think you'll bring to the APM Contracts and Procurement SIG committee? (maximum 150 words)
Adetoun	Abiola	I have been a project management practitioner in the Transport sector for seven years now. I have worked on road traffic, transformation, and telecommunications projects. I possess a strong legal background which gave me a solid education in contract management and procurement. My current project comes under a commercial telecommunications programme where I liaise work with mobile network operators to improve mobile network connectivity in London and generate income for my organisation. This project involves layers of agreements, negotiations, and coordination. This has given me the opportunity of working with various contracts, service level agreements, wayleaves, Major site agreements and conducting procurements. I am an excellent team player, I have developed ability to manage relationships, work with individuals of various background and levels. I have served as APM volunteer/SIG committee member since	My greatest motivation for putting myself forward for election to the Contract management and procurement SIG is the desire to give back to the project management profession. I have learnt so much and met people of various backgrounds since I joined the project management community, most of them helping one way or the other in my professional development and growth. I have a strong desire to give back to the profession that has helped me in developing various transferable skills and developed confidence as a project manager. I also believe that my knowledge of contracts and procurements will be useful in making positive contributions to the SIG and taking it to its next level. I am also looking forward to working with other volunteers, sharing ideas, and helping to shape contract management best practises for project management.	I have developed various transferable skills through my volunteering and work experience. I have developed some contract management skills which is very relevant for progressing the works of this SIG. I am a great team player, able to liaise with people of various backgrounds and levels across different organisations. I also possess excellent research and analysis skills through writing newsletters and blogs. I have developed stakeholder management through my work experience, and I believe this will be useful in coordinating the SIG's activities. I possess excellent oral and written communication skills which is very vital at communicating the SIG's plans and activities. I am able to manage my time, plan and organise my tasks so I can control conflicting priorities and ensure tasks are completed as at when due.

		2014, this has given me the opportunity to keep up to date with the developments in the profession.
Jon	Broome	Previous chair of the SIG for 10+ years. Current trustee of APM.	I am a C&P Geek	Knowledge of C&P. Know my way around the APM.
David	Dulston	I have managed complex supply chains for projects (between the value of 250k to 25 million) I have been a pm for over 10 years. I have successfully introduced new procurement strategies within my current business, leading the business to change their approach.	Project management is important to me and I want to help to set the standard and help the profession as much as I can.	I will bring passion, commitment and strong skills if bringing people together. I can help with the lessons I have learnt of the years to help the committee deliver the best possible results. I have a Bsc degree and have worked in procurement in the past.
Olubukola	Feyisetan	I am a current member of the committee with years of experience in project, programme and portfolio delivery gained from the public sector. Through the collective experience and knowledge of the SIG members, the group is motivated to answering relevant questions on the subject of contracts and procurement. I have been an active member for over 2 years and contributed ideas to the white paper published on procuring for agile. Equally, I have participated in APM hosted webinars delivered by the group to raise the profile of the subject matter, and to increasing understanding of the essential role of contracts and procurement in portfolio, programme and project delivery. It would be a	I am motivated to continue to raise the profile of contracts and procurement management; promote the understanding and facilitate sharing good practice of the subject matter within the group and across organisations.	As an enthusiastic project lead, I would bring my whole self and qualities of positivity, active listening and attention to detail. I have analytical thinking skills and so I am able to assess complex information, develop conclusions, make recommendations to deliver effective solutions. I work well with others and believe that the best results are achieved through collaboration and team-working. Seniors and peers attest to my good-nature and sense of humour.

		privilege to continue to contribute my ideas, gain new insights and share knowledge on the value of contracts and procurement management in P3M delivery.
Alastair	Greenan	Over twenty-five years Project and Contract Management experience in a number of industry sectors including Oil and Gas, Healthcare, Power, Manufacturing and Defence, and has worked on projects in the US, Europe, Middle East, Africa and the Far East. Chartered Engineer, Fellow of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, Fellow of the Institute of Risk Management and (most importantly) a Fellow of the APM and member of the APM Contracts and Procurement SIG. He has been a contributor to the APM Body of Knowledge, Co-author of NEC short services contract (procuring services) and helped write the APM Guide to Contracts & Procurement.	Been on the committee since 2010 - love the ability to share and learn on this important subject	See experience above
Ian	Heptinstall	SIG member for several years. Experience in CPO role at major UK contractor. Experience buying range of project services in chemicals and pharma industry. Experience as a supplier to major projects, and consultant/trainer in both project management and procurement.	Continue as committee member and contribute to APM on the topic	Broader experience of the project management role, allied to procurement both in and outside a project environment. Expertise in collaborative (project alliance/IPD contracting)

Fernando Alberto	Julai	I have been working in the construction industry for plus minus 5 years and I have been dealing with construction contracts and procurement of construction tenders as well as construction equipment and material.	I would like to share my knowledge as well as gain more knowledge across all other project management disciplines as far as the subject matter is concerned.	I will bring in leadership, and total quality and governance skills that will enable others to better their careers.
David	Lucas	Managed a team of project managers and project engineers delivering over £350m of capital projects over 23 years Use of 3rd parties (equipment suppliers, engineering design contractors, construction contractors) involved writing and owning multiple purchase orders and EPC contracts	Recently retired- would like to give something back to the profession	Team management: Chaired multiple project steering teams Practical experience of writing purchase orders and contracts Passion for making them as user friendly as possible - model forms with only essential special clauses and effort put into schedules and specifications
Justin	Masterson	I am a project professional with over 15 years' experience, with a passion for combining contract management with project stakeholders to achieve successful project delivery. I am a chartered engineer with extensive blend project and contract management experience as client, consultant, and contractor. I have worked across the full project lifecycle of major complex projects, portfolios, programmes from concept to completion, ranging in value from £1 million - £1.2 billion) covering power generation, oil & gas upstream (including brownfield) and infrastructure. I have experience with	To actively contribute to ongoing recognition and promotion contracting and procurement knowledge in the project management profession & to spend time with likeminded professionals. To actively collaborative with a wide range of project professionals to not only promote best practice but to look at new initiatives within the contracting and procurement arena. To support and develop new PM talent within the profession is something that I am passionate about and firmly believe that APM can play a central role in influencing contracts and procurement in this area.	I am a project professional with more than 15 years' experience of managing technically complex engineering and construction projects working both in the UK and internationally. I will bring an enthusiastic and collaborative approach to the committee. I believe that I bring a passionate and flexible people centric approach whilst maintaining a high standard of integrity and belief in the vision and objectives of the committee. I am keen to pass on my own knowledge of others as well as learning from other project professionals.

		standard forms of contract, including JCT, NEC, FIDIC and LOGIC, as well as procurement models such as traditional contracting, Design & Build, EPC/EPCM, Target Cost, Joint Ventures, and consultancy services. I am currently part of a FIDIC taskforce to produce a new collaborative contract, working alongside highly experience legal and engineering professionals in UK, Europe, Africa, and Australia.
Philip	Reese	Current SIG member	Continue existing engagement and activity with SIG.	As per current engagement with SIG.
Jason	Sprague	As an innovation and transformation consultant, I have designed and delivered numerous commercial and procurement projects across various sectors.	I wish to see the SIG's work on Agile Procurement continue with the production of a new Whitepaper taking us further into best practice and innovation.	I bring experience from various settings of designing projects to deliver commercial change leveraging innovative approaches for procurement.