James Munson

James is a Partner at PA Consulting in the Agile practice global leadership team. James specialises in digital, data and technology team operating model transformations underpinned by Agile ways of working. He also has real world CIO experience having spent 10 years as a CIO prior to joining PA and being included in the UK CIO 100 three times. He has experience spanning multiple sectors including both public and private. His recent clients include National Highways, the Bank of England, University College London, University College London Hospital and Nationwide Building Society.